Front cover.

On April 2017, the book "Păsări din Delta Dunării și împrejurimi (Birds from Danube Delta and surroundings)" by Mihai Baciú has been published. The launch event was held on the National Museum of Natural History 'Grigore Antipa' from city of Bucharest.

The book includes over 240 species, more exactly 247, with 694 photos and images. On each species we can find its description, taxonomic status and information regarding the birds' dimensions and feathering.

The book could be a very useful guide for nature lovers who reach the Danube Delta and want to know more about the birds. It is also useful both for the beginners and advanced ornitologists, along with the beginner or advanced photographers.

The book is translated in four languages: English, French, German and Italian.

Last but not least, the book can be bought at a very affordable price.
